Are the prices at Washington as low as the high price discussions?

Germany should cheer up. Her future is much brighter than that of the American Brewers' Association.

NAPOLEON MIGHT ENVY HIM

At the end of his great campaigns, in which he attempted but failed to conquer the world, Napoleon sat on the Island of St. Helena and dreamed dreams of remorse. British war vessels patrolled surrounding waters to prevent his escape because the world felt that Napoleon's company was a dangerous and disturbing element in society.

John J. Pershing, at the end of his great campaign, in which he led an American army to a glorious victory for morality and justice, is on his way home to be received by an applauding nation. The memories of his military action in France will never be cloyed by a tinge of remorse.

This illustrates the old-new difference between egoistic selfishness and disinterested altruism. The former seeks glory and effects downfall and remorse; the latter seeks paths of duty and service and effects eternal gratitude. The proud shall be humbled and the humble raised up.

John J. Pershing has trod the way of wisdom, and on the Island of St. Helena the spirit of Napoleon crouches in envy.

The man who goes around wishing he had never been born is not always the only one who regrets it.

Although it is charged that moving pictures increase crime, no effort has yet been made to tabulate just how many bolshevik converts can be traced to tennis or golf.

POLAND'S FUTURE

The outlook for the Republic of Poland today is the brightest in the tumultuous history of that country. What is now Poland was formerly three depressed dependencies, Russian, German, Austrian, the remnants after the partition of old Poland. These three sections were arbitrarily separated from one another by artificial customs barriers, different currency, diverse laws, by every conceivable means of decentralization. Today Allied commissions are studying conditions in the re-united republic with an eye to rendering the country self-sufficient now that the artificial barriers have been torn down.

The country is rich in agricultural lands, in mineral deposits, in undeveloped water power. It has large cities well linked together by rail and highways. Its greatest asset is its access to the port of the free city of Danzig. Under the old regime Russia, Germany or Austria took toll of all exports and imports from the three provinces, which prevented the Poles from attaining the commercial and industrial position to which their abilities entitled them.

The commissions are optimistic as to the future of Poland. At present more than half of the country's industries are at a standstill, but once equipped with the financial system contemplated by the Allied commissions, Poland should speedily take rank as one of the important industrial and commercial countries of Europe.

SOCIETY

Announcements have been received here of the marriage of Miss Margaret Coryell Hays to George R. Lamade August 14 at Williamsport, Pa.

Mr. Lamade is a former student of the School of Journalism and is now connected with Grit, a weekly magazine.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fellows will go to Memphis, Mo., tomorrow, where Mr. Fellows will be principal of the high school.

Miss Gertrude Bridgewater of Memphis, Mo., and the Rev. Orris Robson of Boston were married at the home of the bride's parents in Memphis Thursday evening. They will live in Boston. Mrs. Robson has often visited in Columbia. She is a sister of Mrs. Bruce J. Carl of this city, who attended the wedding.

Miss Rowena Dunn of Richmond is visiting at the Delta Delta Delta house this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Harned of Cooper County were the guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Gordon.

Doctor Hill's Position

From the St. Louis Republic:

Commenting upon the reasons which led H. F. Schulte to resign as football coach at the University of Missouri when a similar position was offered to him at the University of Nebraska, President Hill says:

"As Mr. Schulte accepts the same position at Nebraska that he has held here, it is simply a question of whether an institution will pay a higher salary for athletic coaching than for instruction in standard academic and professional subjects. This the University of Missouri will not do."

We have no doubt that the people of Missouri will back the president in that policy. University professors and teachers of lower rank are not paid as much as they are entitled to in the light of the ability that is demanded of them and their long course of apprenticeship. Members of university faculties having families and a legitimate desire to prepare for old age have a problem that is pretty nearly insoluble. Their income from salary is generally not adequate, and if they apply their talents to outside work their work in the university is likely to suffer.

Recognition of these facts has led to an effort to increase the incomes of university teachers. In making this effort it is argued that subfaculty teachers, and even professors in some cases, earn less than men in many of the skilled trades. The argument is a forceful one, but it loses force when the universities themselves pay more for a professor of beef and brawn than for a professor of law, philosophy or mathematics.

It is well that the University of Missouri refuses to set any such example.

CITY AND CAMPUS

John F. Rhodes left this afternoon for Hutchinson, Kansas.

Warren Milligan, a student in the School of Journalism of the University, left this morning for his home in St. Louis for a few days' visit.

Lee Comegys, a student in the School of Journalism of the University, returned last night from Ash Grove, where he spent his vacation.

GOES HANDCUFFED TO BICYCLE

Tony Pizzo on Way to N. Y. From Venice, Cal.—For $3,500 Wager.

Fastened by a long chain to the bicycle he was riding, Tony Pizzo, a discharged sailor, early last night passed through Columbia on his way from Venice, Cal., to New York City. Pizzo sleeps with his machine and eats with it chained to him. He is making the trip on a $3,500 wager.

C. J. Devine, who started the tour with Pizzo and under the same conditions of traveling, was severely injured when struck by an automobile at Spearville, Kan., and is now in a hospital in Kansas City recovering from the wounds.

The contest arose over a bet which Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle made with another motion picture actor. Pizzo said, that no one could cross the American Desert on a bicycle. To win the $3,500, Pizzo must reach New York City by November 1. Although he is almost a month behind his schedule, he is now traveling from ninety to a hundred and ten miles a day, and expects to arrive in New York on time.

Pizzo's handcuffs, which were sealed by Arbuckle at the Ship Cafe in Venice, Cal., May 18, will be sawed off by Mayor Hylan of New York. He carries a letter from the mayor of Los Angeles to Mayor Hylan, and also a letter from the governor of California to Woodrow Wilson.

Pizzo was formerly a motion picture actor. He is making his expenses on the trip by selling souvenir post cards.

CHURCH CONVENTION OPENS

Little Bonne Femme Meeting Begins This Morning.

The annual meeting of the Little Bonne Femme Association was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning at the Little Bonne Femme Church, seven miles from Columbia, by Judge David H. Harris, moderator.

The introductory sermon was preached by the Rev. E. M. Harris of Fulton.

During the first two days of the association meeting most of the discussion will be with reference to business matters. Reports will be received from all committees, and committees will be appointed for the coming year. The Baptists' five-year program will be discussed.

The meeting Thursday will be in the form of a centennial in honor of the founding of the Little Bonne Femme Church, which is the parent of the Baptist Church of Columbia.

Many Columbians are attending the meetings. Baptists from all parts of Boone and Callaway counties drove to the place today. An old fashioned basket dinner is the chief entertainment every day during the convention.

AS MIXED VEGETABLES

Mixed vegetables are attractive and economical in salads, omelets, escalloped dishes and to use as garnishes for meat dishes. If the small quantities left from packing different vegetables whole are placed in one can, many desirable combinations can be made. A good combination during the spring season is young carrots, peas, string beans and young onions. A mixture which the fall garden might furnish is peppers, celery, onions and small lima beans. Do not use beets in such combinations, because they will discolor the mixture.

All the vegetables are prepared separately, as for canning, and packed in layers in a well-boiled jar, according to United States Department of Agriculture specialists. Each layer should be packed as tightly as possible before the next is added. Fill the jars with a brine. Put on a boiled top and a rubber. Process in waterbath canner either 120 minutes one day, or one hour on three successive days, or thirty-five minutes in steam-pressure cooker under fifteen pounds pressure.

Corn and Tomatoes Good.

Corn and tomatoes make a good combination to can. Blanch fresh corn on the cob five minutes, dip for an instant in cold water and cut from the cob. Scald tomatoes from thirty to sixty seconds and dip in cold water. Remove the skin and core. Chop tomatoes into medium-sized pieces. Mix thoroughly two parts of tomatoes with one part of corn. Pack the mixture in hot glass jars, add a level teaspoonful of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of salt to a quart. Fill the jars with hot water. Put on a boiled top and rubber and process 120 minutes in waterbath canner one day, or one hour on each of three successive days, or thirty-five minutes in a steam-pressure cooker under fifteen pounds pressure.

A corn, tomato and string bean combination is made by using one part of corn, one part of green string beans and three parts of tomatoes. The corn is blanched, dipped in cold water and cut from the cob. The string beans are cut into convenient lengths and blanched for four minutes. The tomatoes are blanched from thirty to sixty seconds and cold-dipped. Remove the skin and core of the tomatoes and cut into medium-sized pieces. Mix the three vegetables thoroughly and pack the mixture in hot glass jars. Add a level teaspoonful of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of salt, and fill jar with hot water. Put on boiled top and rubber and process in waterbath.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR WELL HERE

University Will Increase Water Supply of Well No. 2.

Two hundred and fifty feet of metal pipe and a brass working barrel that will be used in the improvement of University well No. 2, in the Engineering Annex, was unloaded at the M. K. & T. station this morning. It will be installed immediately.

The improvement on the well will be made at a cost of about a thousand dollars. It is believed that putting in the new casing will bring about an increased supply of water in the well.

Pays His Part of War Bill.

By United Press.
